WOMEN WILD TO WEDMAN WHO NEVER KISSED ONE OF THEM.Loving Letters From All Over the Country Received by Prof. Algio R. Crook.

CHORUS GIRLS ROAST HIM.

Say He Is a "Freak" and a
"Goody-Goody"—He Manifests Irritation Over the Matter.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Chicago, April 27.—With every mail come loving letters from all over the country, offering proposals of marriage to Professor Algio R. Crook of the Northwestern University, the man who recently admitted to his class that he never loved, never kissed, never hugged and never kissed or hugged a woman.

They came from earnest women all over the country; maids, widows and grass-widows. They came by telegraph, telephone and registered letter. They breathe a spirit of idolatry, of reverence and of warm sentimental devotion.

Professor Crook refused to discuss or disclose them, but an intimate friend said such was the tenor of the perfumed, creased and tinted missives.

"If Professor Crook never used a swear word before," said this friend, "he is strongly tempted now. He is not angry at the women, but at the tattling undergraduates, who gave the thing to the newspapers. He is ashamed and humiliated over the gossip the fair has provoked."

Chicago girls are divided in their opinions as to the veracity of Professor Crook in saying that he never kissed a woman. Most of them agree that his statements stamp him a fossil, and some think it would be fun to kiss him, just to let him know what he's missed. Here are the views of the members of the Florida Company:

Madge Relyea: "He beats all records. What an idiot he must be. Case of sour grapes. I reckon. He probably never got the chance to kiss a girl, anyway."

Maria Withouten: "He's a darling. He's papa's pet and mamma's joy, probably. The idea of living nearly forty years without one kiss! Well, I never!"

GOULD DOUBLES HIS FATHER'S MILLIONS.Has Made Half of the Increase
Since the Presidential Election in November.

HIS GREAT EARNING POWER.

Seven Dollars Comes to Him Every
Time the Clock Ticks and Still He Is a Quiet
Speculator.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, April 27.—The Wizard of Wall Street is George Gould. He is not pyrotechnic; he does not figure in great coups, corners, etc. He simply goes on making money every day in the year, and every minute in the day—making it faster than his sister Helen can give away or than his other sister, Anna, can spend it on her husband, the Count de Castelnau.

George Gould has doubled the Gould millions since his father's death. The Gould estate was worth $40,000,000 then; it is worth $80,000,000 now.

Half of this increase has been made since President McKinley was elected last November.

Leaving out the fractions, Mr. Gould's capacity, when working for himself, is $7 every time the clock ticks, and he works nearly a year to earn what Mr. Gould makes in one hour of an afternoon.

He has earned at the rate of $60,000 every hour the stock market was open.

This amazing fortune is greater than any other man in Wall Street has made, with the exception of John D. Rockefeller, and perhaps E. H. Harriman.

What starts Wall Street most is the fact that Mr. Gould has made this astonishing fortune without the least suspicion of trickery. He has done it by merely buying and selling the stocks of his own roads.

He has failed even to make any sensation at "specops" of the kind that pools in Sugar, for instance, are wont to make. He has been a steady buyer and seller from bottom prices to top prices.

Hundreds of speculators who believed Mr. Gould would do as he did bought freely when he began buying and have realized handsome fortunes. So it is estimated that he has made as much for others as for the Gould estate.

As a result of his great deals, George Gould is, perhaps, the most powerful one man in the American railroad world today. He controls the Erie, the great St. Louis and Missouri Pacific, the Iron Mountain, Texas Pacific, Denver and Rio Grande, the Texas Eastern, Wabash and St. Louis and Southwestern.

Most of these roads were dependent to a large extent on raw materials and agricultural products. But Mr. Gould has now, it is said, tapped the terrific traffic at his burg, through the Wheeling and Lake Erie, and can ship vast quantities of finished goods to the Atlantic coast.

For, in addition to his own roads, he is a director in the Southern Pacific, which has its own line of steamers to Asia.

WOMEN MIGHT HAVE KISSED PROF. CROOK.

In a letter to the Record-Herald, published Saturday, Professor Crook writes:

"Editor of the Record-Herald—You and the other newspaper men of Chicago are getting unnecessarily excited over my statement that I have never hugged or kissed a woman or girl. I should think it would have occurred, even to a newspaper reporter, that women and girls might have hugged and kissed me. Some men have more tact than others."

"A. R. CROOK."

At the Knickerbocker here is what was said:

Margaret Hobart: "I don't believe a word of it. He's posing for the goody-goody. I don't believe any man ever lived thirty-seven years without even casting sheep's eyes at a girl. He is a humbug."

Venue Snyder: "Why, the man is all kinds of a fool, isn't he? Bringing him on here and we'll make his life one glad sweet song. Kiss him! Not without a mask, please."

Ruby Reid: "Now, wouldn't that jar the preserves in the cellar? What a crank. He'd kiss a girl quick enough if she'd let him. I'd hate to offer him the opportunity. I don't believe any man is so overlastingly straight-laced as that."

Catherine Bartlett: "Why, the man is a freak. Wouldn't he be a love to have 'round the house? Lucky he never married. His wife should wish she had died young. Such goodness as that is wearisome."

Jessie Gordon: "The professor is a beauty bright. There is only one of him, I guess, and one will be plenty, thanks. This world would be too good if there were many men like that."

Nellie Ballou: "I'd like to kiss him once just to see what he'd do."

How to Send Kisses by Mail.
The kiss question, revived by Professor Crook, recalls the many futile attempts that were made to send kisses tangibly by mail, until a bright Washington woman discovered the way of doing so, thus winning the gratitude of the world.

She discovered it by accident. This is how:

"One day," she says, "I wanted to write 'him' a letter. It was chilly, and my lips were chapped. I had put a little cold cream on them, and, forgetting this, pressed the long, loving kisses upon the paper when the letter was finished."

"And, lo! My lips left their imprint there. The act of sending kisses by mail had been discovered!"

LONG ESTRANGEMENT
IS TERMINATED.Mexico and Austria Will Send Diplomatic Agents to Each Others' Capitals.

RELATIONS SEVERED LONG AGO.

Mexico Now Appropriates $15,000 for a Minister to Austria and the Latter Country Will Follow Suit.

Washington, April 27.—A complete rapprochement between the Governments of Austria and Mexico has been brought about and as a result each country is about to send a Minister to the other.

This terminates an international estrangement dating to the days when young Maximilian of Austria sought to gain a foothold in Mexico and lost his life in the adventure. Ever since then Austria and Mexico have suspended all intercourse with each other, commercially and politically.

Recently, however, friendly overtures have been made to terminate the estrangement, and have resulted in a satisfactory agreement between them by which the old arrangement of friendship will be resumed.

A bill has passed the Mexican Congress reciting the fact of a rapprochement and providing for a Minister to Austria at a salary of $15,000 annually.

Austria, in turn, has agreed to send a Minister to Mexico, and this will close the long and historic separation.

The Mexican Government has also taken steps to resume diplomatic communication with South American countries, the first move in that direction being the appointment of a Mexican Minister to the Argentine.

As a result of this sentiment, a Minister to Argentina is now named, and one to Uruguay probably will be appointed before long.

It is expected that this will develop speedily into an extension of diplomatic relations between Mexico and all the South American countries.

ritory Politicians.

MUST NOT PAY DIVIDENDS.

Injunction Issued Against the Anaconda Copper Company.

Butte, Mont., April 27.—Judge Cagney Saturday issued an injunction restraining the Anaconda Copper Company and the Parrott Copper Company from paying any dividend to the Amalgamated Copper Company on such shares as the latter company, its agents or representatives own.

The injunction prevents the disposal or transfer of the shares of the Anaconda and Parrott companies held by the Amalgamated company, and a demand is made for the forfeiture of such shares under a Montana statute which provides that the property of a trust in Montana shall be conserved.

The injunction also restrains the directors of the Parrott company from shipping any amount of the Anaconda works or the payment of any sum whatever to the Anaconda Copper Company.

Our Bohemian Fire Flend missed it on fires for the past two weeks, for a very good reason—there were no fires; but, on his travels during the past ten days, helped to dig out of a ditch an overturned freight-car full of Linens and Domestics!! Smashed Boxes, Ripped Bales!! Demoralization and Chaos generally!! Goods were all rejected by the Consignors and left with the Railroad, much to their disgust!! It was then our B. F. F. got in his work, securing the whole immense lot of very choice goods at a very low price, so very low that the R. R. folks asked him as a favor not to give it away!! But we will now give the goods away at the lowest prices they have ever been sold!! Wet or dry, Smoke or Flame!! Here they go.Is to give the public at all times such values
